#WhyGoodwill

Right out of high school, Jeremy Ross of our Milton store turned to Goodwill for help. When asked what brought him to Goodwill, he said “I went through the training program at the Career Center.” He started discussing the various skills he learned, such as customer service and organizing merchandise. Through the training program, he also obtained other job skills, like how to build houses or doing different jobs through the Vo Tech Center. Jeremy stated that he enjoyed learning many skills that help him achieve goals at work. He began working for Goodwill in January of 2013 and now he works full-time at our Milton store. When asked what his favorite part about working at Goodwill was, he said “I enjoy the people I work with and interacting with all of our customers.” He believes this opportunity helped him learn, and wants to continue learning with Goodwill. When asked what advice he has for others in a similar situation he said, “Go through the training programs at Goodwill, and learn as much as possible.”
